

Expect Arbuckle To Be Freed On Bail Very Soon

Friends Have Big Sum Ready In Confidence of That

INDICTMENT'S RETURN

Grand Jury's Formal Charge of Manslaughter is Hourly Awaited

By ELLIS MARTIN
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15—Interest centered today in the formal return of an indictment voted by the grand jury charging Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle with manslaughter in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe. This was scheduled to take place before Presiding Judge Shattall of the superior court.

Formal return of the indictment was expected to mark the opening of a determined effort on the part of the defense to obtain the release of the famous film comedian on bail.
Judge Shattall was expected to set the amount of bail and reports were current that the defense had prepared for any contingency by having available a bail fund of $100,000.

Intimately connected with the plans of the defense for obtaining Ar-buckle's release was the attitude of district attorney Brady on the matter of the still pending charge of murder against Arbuckle. He as yet has given no indication whether he will press it or prosecute on the manslaughter indictment. Action of the coroner's jury late yesterday, however, in returning a verdict holding Arbuckle responsible for the injuries that caused Miss Rappe's death and charging him with manslaughter, was expected to influence the district attorney in favor of the latter charge.

For one brief instant while the coroner's jury filed out one by one to cast their verdict in the death of Virginia Rappe, did Roscoe Arbuckle forget his part and miss his cue. Throughout the inquest he had assumed the role of the fman of unreadable emotion.

Visibly the comedian trembled as he watched the jury go under lock and key. So preceptibly did his hands shake during the first attempts to light a cigarette that he was forced to abandon his intentions and wait for better self-control.

An active investigation continued today into reports of efforts at witness tampering.

Miss Alice Blake and Miss Zeh Prevost, important witnesses, have been placed in seclusion under police surveillance and steps taken to safeguard other witnesses in the case from outside interference, it was announced.

The San Francisco Women's Vigilance committee, an organization for murder and gangster trials here, appointed a committee of twenty to give the women witnesses in the case moral support and to look after their well-fare.

There was conjecture today as to the effect of the entrance of the federal government into the case through action by Special Federal Attorney Harold H. McCormick, looking toward a sweeping investigation into the source of liquor at Arbuckle's gay party and whether similar affairs are prevalent.

Judge Ryan To Be Orator At Unveiling Of Shaft

The program for the dedication of the memorial shaft to the young men of Bristol who participated in the late World's War with special recognition of those who paid the supreme sacrifice, which is to be held Saturday afternoon, was announced today.

The shaft is erected on the grounds of the post office, Beggar and Prospect streets, where the dedication exercises will be held. They will begin at three o'clock and will be under the auspices of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion. The shaft will be unveiled by Miss Emily Bracken, sister of the late Robert W. Bracken, one of Bristol's heroes who was killed in France.

The program will be as follows:
Selection by Bristol Band.
Singing, "America."
Prayer, Rev. James J. Bingham, Chaplain of Marines of World's War.
Dedication of Memorial Shaft, Burgess Clifford L. Anderson.

Unveiling of Memorial Shaft, Miss Emily Bracken.

Selection by Band and Singing.
"Keep the Home Fires Burning." Address, Hon. Judge William C. Ryan, president Judge of Bucks County.
Address, Comrade Charles E. Scott, of Grand Army of Republic.

Closing selection by band, "Stars and Stripes Forever."

The singing will be directed by C. H.
Bunting and the members of the legion will meet at the post room at 2.30 o'clock and be escorted by the band to the shaft.

John B. Moore Elected Judge Of World Court

John Bassett Moore, of New York, who, according to dispatches from Geneva, has been elected a Judge of the International Court of Justice and Arbitration by the Assembly of the League of Nations. Mr. Moore was elected on the second ballot.

Revolutionary Body Disclosed In Berlin

Organization Suspected of Prompting Erzberger
Murder

MANY ARRESTS MADE

By International News Service.
BERLIN, Sept. 15—A revolutionary organization with national ramifications involving militarists, monarchists and anti-semitists who are pledged to "remove" objectionable republicans and work against the republican government has been discovered by the police, it was revealed here today.

Th persons behind the organization are said by the police to have been responsible for the assassination of Mathias Erzberger, leader of the cen-trum party.

Many arrests have been made, especially in Bavaria which is now said by Berlin government officials to be a hotbed of royalist agitation. Some of the prisoners were former soldiers and participants in the Von Kapp revolution in March 1920. Others were formally naval officers.

"The Erzberger assassination put us on the trail of the organization and we already know that radical members of the nationalist party are involved," a police official told the International News Service.

Grand Jury Exonerates Policeman; Indicts Italian

The bill of indictment in which Policeman Harry Kessinger was charged with assault and battery on Michael Puchino has been thrown out by the Grand Jury at Doylestown and the costs ordered placed on Puchino.

"Not a true bill" was the verdict of the Grand Jury late yesterday afternoon and the case is thereby quashed.

Kessinger and Puchino became involved in an altercation on the night of July 4th, on Jefferson avenue near the old line of the P. R. R. The officer claimed that he ordered Puchino, who is alleged to have been loitering, to move on, and that he then attempted to place Puchino under arrest and that Puchino resisted. Kessinger alleged that he used his club in order to subdue Puchino and take him to the lockup.

Puchino and his friends alleged that Kessinger came up from behind, and without warning and without cause, struck Puchino over the head with his club.

A warrant was sworn out for Kessinger on July 6th before Justice Cooper, of Tullytown, when a hearing was given on July 7th. A score of witnesses were on hand on both sides, together with a Philadelphia attorney, appearing for Puchino. Kessinger was held in bail for court.

After the Tullytown hearing a cross suit was started by the policeman, who had a warrant issued for Puchino, charged him with assault and battery and resisting an officer. This case was heard before Justice Kraft, Bristol, and Puchino held in bail for court.

The Grand Jury, at Doylestown, decided to return a true bill on this charge and that the case should be heard before the court. It is listed for trial tomorrow.

Approximately 460 students will be enrolled this year at Dickinson College.

Dries Denies Any Implication In Freight Car Loot

Local Merchant Not Arrested And Was Exonerated
by Officials

WILL PROVE INNOCENCE

Asks Withholding of Judgment Until Full Facts Are Known

Emphatic denial was made today by Louis Dries, of Mill and Pond Streets, that he was under arrest, or in any way connected with the disposal of alleged stolen property supposed to be the loot of railroad freight cars. Mr.
Dries, one of the leading merchants of Bristol, stated at his furniture store this morning that the article in a Trenton morning paper today that he had been arrested and held in bail on a charge of receiving stolen goods was absolutely false. He is considering action against the author of this statement.

"Practically my sole connection with the case," said Mr. Dries, "is that I had in my store some rugs which the railroad detectives say are a part of the loot of freight car robberies. I arranged to purchase some rugs at a cheap price on August 31st, and the rugs were left at my store, after I had paid the price asked. Last Wednesday, afternoon, while my store was closed and I was in Philadelphia, a bundle which I believe contained some of the alleged stolen rugs was placed in the cellar of my store.

"I am informed that the bundle was placed there by my brother Michael and a man who is in the jobbing business in Hightstown, N. J. I had suspicion that the rugs were not all right, because of the very cheap price asked for them, and I kept them separate. I did not examine them closely until the railroad detectives came to my place and inquired for property alleged to have been sold by freight car thieves. I let them look through my store and in the basement they found the bundle containing the rugs, which they claimed to have recognized as part of the car robbery loot.

"The Pennsylvania Railroad authorities informed me that my connection with the case was entirely guiltless, Attorney Benson, of Jersey City, chief counsel for the railroad company, so stated to me, as did Chief Inspector Spencer, of the P. R. R.

"I ask the people of Bristol, among whom I have lived for the past twenty years, to suspend judgment in this case until October 4th, when, at a hearing in the case, my innocence will be clearly shown and I will be completely exonerated."

The Trenton dispatches state that a van load of stolen goods was recovered yesterday when detectives raided the home of Mrs. Rose Horowitz, at 224 Southard street. It is alleged to be part of the loot stolen a few weeks ago from both the Pennsylvania and Philadelphia and Reading railway companies.

The raid was followed by the arrest of Mrs. Horowitz on the charge of receiving stolen goods. Later railroad detectives arrested Michael Dries, of 192 South Broad street, employed as an insurance agent at Bristol. Railroad detectives expect to make more arrests today.

Chief Spencer, head of the Pennsylvania railroad detective force, and Lieutenants Ennis and Sparling, have been working on the case since the robbery was committed. They went to Bristol last night and nabbed the Dries brothers. The sleuths said that they found part of the plunder taken in the Reading railroad robbery in the custody of the Dries brothers.

A railroader passing the Horowitz home had his attention attracted by the unloading of heavy boxes from a truck. Prosecutor Oliphant received a tip and sent Detective Stevenson to investigate. Much valuable merchan-

Neighbors To Testify At Capella Trial Tomorrow

The Grand Jury has returned true bills in on all counts against both Samuel Capella, and his wife Lena, two Italian residents of Elm street, who several weeks ago were accused of making life miserable for the residents of that neighborhood.

This action of the jury at Doylestown yesterday means that the Cap-ellas will have to face a court trial on all charges. The charges include: Samuel Capella, selling liquor without license (two counts), keeping a disorderly house, nuisance.
Lena Capella, assault and battery, resisting an officer.

The case is listed for trial tomorrow and a large number of residents in the Elm street neighborhood will go to Doylestown to testify.

Mrs. Harding Stops Friend From Smoking

Mrs. Harding restrains Mrs. John T. Pratt from smoking a cigarette when the cameraman takes their photograph. The photograph was made while Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Pratt were strolling on the lawns of the Piping Rock, Long Island, Country Club, while the President was playing an eighteen-hole foursome.

Movie Censor Folks Re-Schedule Outing

Employees of State Board Will Picnic At Burlington Island

FILM STARS INVITED

The postponed outing of the employees of the Pennsylvania State Board of Motion Picture Censors will be held at Burlington Island Park on Saturday next. The outing was to have been held on July 23rd, but was postponed owing to the death of Chief Electrician Samuel Johnson.

The employees of the Philadelphia office of the board of movie censors are going to close a busy season of censoring by having a good time.
Movie folk are going to join them in the outing.

Comedian Ben Turpin and the peerless Theda Bara, who are both in Philadelphia at the present time, have been invited and are expected to attend.

The outing will also signalize the pleasant relations and harmonious cooperation which exist between the employees of the State Board and the present members of the board.

To further prove their good feeling for each other, the censorship board employees have challenged the moving picture exchange men of Vine Street, (the moving picture industry's center in Philadelphia) to a baseball game. The game will be played during the afternoon.

Fred Buckaley, who once had a tryout with the Athletics and is said to have been gloating over that record ever since, is going to try and silence the doubts of his fellow employees of the censor board by playing with the censorship team. John McKay, of the famous Hartville team, will also play with the censors.

Chief Inspector George Locker is getting the Censorship team in shape and "Bob" Lynch, of the Metro Exchange, is marshalling the movie exchange ball team.

Messrs. Harry L. Knapp, chairman of the State Board, and Henry Starr Richardson, secretary of the Board, have promised to play on the censorship team and the exchange men have been using every effort to match these dignitaries with some of the magnates in their business. Mrs. E. C. Niver, the other member of the State Board, has been asked to umpire.

Beside the baseball game, there will be other athletic events, dancing and also picnic "eats" for the entire party.

In order to enliven the program of "athletic events," "Bill" Connor, of the censorship force, and champion chess player of Cherry Street, has issued a challenge to all comers. "Bill" Homiller also of the censors force, and champion checker player of Philadelphia, has also issued a challenge to all comers. Nerve racking battles are expected in both these events, as prominent men among the Vine Street movie contingent are eager to grasp these championships.

Moving picture camera men, representing the big film concerns and the news picture services are to be present and expose many yards of film.

There will be bathing, of course, and the censors have promised to stay away from the beach or wear dark glasses, while the camera men are filming bathing beauties attired in one-piece suits, or sweet smiles and diamond rings.

Most of the censorship employees and the movie exchange men, and

Distribute Typhoid Prevention Rules

Health Board Urges Doctors To Keep Disease to One Case

TO REPORT SUSPICIONS

There is but one case of typhoid fever in Bristol and the local health board is determined to prevent, if possible, any additional cases.

Today each of the physicians received from Russel B. Carty, secretary of the Health Board, a copy of regulations which the local board received from the authorities at Harrisburg.
With these regulations, Mr. Carty sent a note requesting strict compliance with the regulations. It has also written to Harrisburg for more literature concerning the typhoid fever.

The regulations sent to the physicians by Mr. Carty read as follows:
To Secretaries of Boards of Health:

There are many cases of typhoid in the State—all traceable to milk, spring, and wells. No cases are traceable to public water supplies complying with State regulations.
You can lessen the spread of this infection in these ways:

1—Have the doctors report promptly not only the actual cases but those under suspicion, particularly when they are in the families of those handling milk or food which is eaten uncooked.

2—Telegraph or telephone to the Department of Health, collect, the name, the doctor reporting, and the location of the case, as soon as you get a report of typhoid fever or suspected typhoid fever.

3—Caution your people in regard to drinking from springs, wells, or running streams, unless the water be boiled, filtered, or chlorinated.

4—Notify the Department, of water companies which are not chartered or under State supervision.

Faithfully yours,
WILLIAM C. MILLER

tion.

President Sails To West Point To Review Cadets

By International News Service.
WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 15—The Presidential yacht Mayflower with President Harding and his party aboard was steaming up the Hudson this morning bound for West Point, where the president plans to review the cadet corps and inspect the post.
The President is expected to arrive about noon and take lunch here.

President Harding made a sudden change in his plans after boarding the Mayflower at Sag Harbor last night. Just before going aboard he said the Mayflower might possibly proceed to Washington today, but this morning the last minute change became known.

Accompanying President and Mrs.
Harding are Secretary of War Weeks and Attorney General Daugherty.

Admiral Sends Fatty a Bouquet

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1—A large bouquet today graced the cell of Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle, the gift of an elderly man who said he was an old admirer of the film comedian's screen antics.

A card signed "J. J. Kelly—from number 16" accompanied the flowers.

Martindell Trial Ends Abruptly In Quashed Indictment

Ethel Agnus' Mother Hurries to Hospital

Family Fears For Life of Bristol Girl Hurt in Auto Crash

NEAR ATLANTIC CITY

The brothers and sisters of Ethel Angus, aged 19, who was seriously injured in an automobile smash near Atlantic City early yesterday morning are anxiously awaiting at their home, 667 New Buckley street, for word from their mother as to her condition.

The injured girl is in a hospital at Atlantic City. Her mother, Mrs. Hannah Angus, and her brother, Leonard, hurried there as soon as they received word of the accident.

Two men companions of the girl on the auto ride are also in the hospital.
Another girl, Anna Johnson, aged 22, whose home is at 2182 E. Lehigh Avenue, Philadelphia, died soon after the crash. The police say the accident followed a joy ride of the two men and two girls from Atlantic City to Egg Harbor.

Both girls were employed as waitresses in Atlantic City hotels, and roomed together. Ethel Angus, it was learned at her home here today, had taken a new position as waitress at the Hotel Elberon last Tuesday. She had previously been working in other hotels at the resort. The Johnson girl is not known to Ethel Angus' family.

Ethel Angus is well known in Bristol, having lived here most of her life.
She attended Bristol public schools and for several years worked in the Grundy mill, in the twisting room.
She went to Atlantic City last Spring to secure a position as waitress, desiring work at the shore in order to enjoy the pleasures of the resort.

Her father, the late John Angus, died eight years ago. She has two brothers and three sisters, all living in Bristol.

Ethel Angus is reported, in dispatches from Atlantic City, to be suffering from internal injuries, shock and cuts and bruises about the head and body. She was unconscious when taken to the hospital, but recovered her senses an hour later.

Sidney Diamond, a New York youth summering at 116 Gramercy place, Atlantic City, driver of the automobile, which belonged to his father, was badly bruised and cut about the upper part of the body. He was placed under arrest. Frank C. Huber, of 106 South Connecticut avenue, Atlantic City, fourth member of the party, suffered a fractured right leg and lacerations about the head and chest.

D. Freedley McDonald, of Atlantic City, with a party of friends in his motorcar, was within a half mile of the scene of the accident, fifteen miles out from Atlantic City. He placed the injured in his machine and rushed them to the hospital.

Just outside of Pomona, Frank Mc-Namee, of 1106 East Columbia avenue Philadelphia, driving a loaded truck, stopped John Percell, another truck driver, to ask directions to Atlantic City. He had mounted to his seat and was just getting under way when the Diamond car crashed into the rear of the truck. The touring car was wrecked.

The Johnson girl's face was crushed lungs punctured, both legs fractured and several ribs broken. She died shortly after being admitted to the hospital.

Body Of Man Found In Fire Ruins At Far Rockaway

By International News Service.
NEW YORK, Sept. 15—Three square blocks of buildings at Rockaway Beach, a Long Island shore resort, are in ruins today and hundreds of vacationists are thankful for a narrow escape, following a fire which is believed to have been started by a gay season's end party in a frame cottage.

The damage is estimated at $1,000, 000.

Most of the guests of the larger hotels had left for the summer.

The body of a man so badly charred that it could not be identified, was taken from the ruins. Searchers are seeking the bodies of two others who have been reported missing.

Receives D. D. Degree

Rev. J. Leonard Hynson, pastor of Fourth Street Presbyterian Church, Lebanon has received from Colorado State University the degree of doctor of divinity.

Judge Ryan Upholds Argu- ment of Defense That Bill is Defective

NEW ONE TO BE SOUGHT

Prosecution Will at Once Apply to the Grand Jury

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 15—Judge William C. Ryan, sitting in Common Pleas Court, this afternoon at 2 o'clock, quashed the indictment against W. B. Martindell, Bristol chiropractor, accused of practicing medicine and surgery without a license.

The quashing of the indictment was on the contention of the defendant's attorney that it was defective, in not being sufficiently specific.

The prosecution immediately began preparations to secure another indictment which would not be defective.
The Grand Jury, which is now sitting, will be petitioned.

The indictment against Enos M. Yoder, of Perkaskie, against whom similar charges were made, was quashed at the same time.

The indictment was quashed on the argument for the defense by Howard I. James, of Bristol, and supporting attorney for the defense.

Mr. James advanced the argument that the act creating the state board of medical examination and licensure makes certain exceptions to the persons who must be licensed under the act. Mr. James contended that these exceptions were not specified in the indictment.

When the court announced the decision, there was an incipient demonstration on the part of sympathizers with the defendant. Judge Ryan called them to order, warning them that the court room was not a public meeting place and that such a violation of the dignity of the court would not be tolerated.

After court had adjourned the Bristol chiropractor became the center of a demonstration on the court house steps.

The defense in the case of the Commonwealth versus W. B. Martindell, the Bristol chiropractor charged with practicing medicine and surgery without a license, seemed to indicate, in their opening argument today, that, in the event of an adverse verdict, the case might be carried to the higher courts.

That indication was in their attack on the constitutionality of the act creating the State medical examining and licensing board.

At the outset of the trial, Howard I. James, of Bristol, for the defense, offered a motion for the quashing of the indictment against Martindell.
Mr. James argued that, in the bill of indictment, three counts were embodied as one. He argued also that the bill of indictment was not specific, and did not give specific dates and names of persons, which Mr. James characterized as "duplicitous." He also argued that no specific instance was named in which the defendant had professed to treat anyone by surgery.

Harry Grim, an attorney of Perkaskie, appearing for Dr. Enos M. Yoder, of Perkaskie, another chiropractor, who is to be tried on a similar charge at this term of court, argued on similar lines to Mr. James. He declared that there was a differentiation between diagnosing and treating a case and that these were separate and distinct professions. He argued also that no fee, nor the taking of any fee or fees, was mentioned in the indictment.

After a motion had been made and allowed that Francis Winters, a member of the Wisconsin bar, be admitted to practice in the Bucks County court for this case, had been allowed, Mr.
Winters made a vigorous attack upon the constitutionality of the medical examination and licensing act. He argued that examinations for determining qualifications to practice chiropractic should be made by chiropractors and not by medical men.

The case came to trial at 10.45 this morning, with the largest audience present in the courtroom at Doylees-town since the trial of Clara Bartell, a young girl who faced the court about two years ago for the murder of her father in defense of her mother.

There were present this morning between four and five hundred spectators and witnesses. There were over a hundred persons from Bristol. The Bristol party travelled in a special trolley car which left Bristol about 8 A. M. and in autos. There were also people from Morrisville, Hulmeville, Newportville and other towns.

The medical profession of Bristol, and all Bucks County, was liberally represented, and by leading men in the profession.

ESPERANTISTS OVER-CONFIDENT

At the annual convention of the Esperantists in Prague, the official delegate of the League of Nations said, in his address, that he anticipated the time when all men seeking peace would discover a common medium of expression. Unofficially, he alluded to the possibility of Esperanto's becoming the more or less formal language of the league.

Offhand, it would seem that the people would not bother much about a common language. The medium of expression is of minor concern in English-speaking nations, and, in fact, with most nations. People are interested in living and prospering. Yet 2700 delegates from forty countries attended the convention.

The possibility of inducing the world to adopt an international language is more distant than ever, now that new nations, with tongues of which they are proud, have been formed. Desirable as a common medium of expression is, theoretically, it does not appear to be practicable. Languages are not fashioned, but grow and spread. The nations would more likely form and use a mongrel language than to accept one already devised, and thrust on them.

UNEMPLOYMENT AND ITS CAUSES

Notwithstanding that the commercial reaction is world-wide in extent, with factories shut down and men idle everywhere, an impression generally exists that the stagnation is an artificial contrivance of the powerful capitalistic class, as it is designated, cruelly to subject the dependent masses to its arbitrary dictation. Occurrences incidental to the industrial depression casually seem to verify this supposition, and the real causes of the lull are overshadowed by the exaggerated importance of battles between organized employers and employees.

Inclination to social discord and political malcontent is commoner and more susceptible to radical aggravation at present than in the average period of economic inertia, because a relatively large number of legionnaires, who are out of work or in need, rail against profiteers and the government for their misfortunes or reverses. Distressed legionnaires, who are greeted with music, cheers and praise on their return home from strange experiences on foreign soil, naturally feel neglected and complain of democracy's ingratitude.

That erroneous ideas should prevail as to the reactionary depression is not surprising. When men are out of work or in trouble for a long time, they are apt to find malicious motives and premeditated schemes as the origin of their adversities. There are professional misanthropes who will delight in fanning class hatred, and who seize rare opportunities like those of the present to agitate discontent. And there are business and political leaders who confirm fallacious opinions by describing conditions as being psychological.

The complete shutdown of manufacture and partial collapse of business were inevitable results of economic causes. They are characteristic features of a severe universal and unavoidable reactionary depression. Conflict between capital and labor is neither a cause nor a result, but an incident. Legionnaires happen to be victims of the industrial inactivity, not because democracy is ungrateful, but because practically everybody is involved in it.

Any banker can explain the situation briefly and clearly to inquirers. Bankers are best qualified to elucidate causes and effects, as they have been and are in position to perceive and understand them. The cause of the marvelous prosperity after the war was abnormal demand for goods of all kinds, culminating in impairment and exhaustion of credit and in excessive prices and costs. As soon as credit by exhaustion reached the danger point, it was imperative that credit should be denied. This tense condition immediately started contraction of credit, necessitating reduction of prices and costs. A period known as liquidation set in, a period of reaction from the danger climax of unsafe credit and unreasonable prices and costs to a restoration of financial safety and correspondingly reasonable prices and costs. As soon as the liquidation of prices and costs, consequent to the contraction of credit, runs its course, commerce will revive and an era of great prosperity will dawn.

WELCOMED TO HIS NATIVE TOWN

From hovel to palace is the real contrast between the desolate boyhood and sunshiny manhood of Charlie Chaplin, the movie comedian. The street urchin, who slept where he could and ate what he could find, and the youth who departed from the most congested district on earth with hate in his heart, is welcomed to his native town with greater popular tribute than a king could rightfully expect.

It was almost impossible to read the autobiography of Chaplin, which was published in the press a few years ago, without pitying him, even in his success. He related how, as a lad, in the populous section of London, he hunted food and shelter much like the domestic animals, sleeping in sheds and eating castaway nourishment. At length, he made his way to the United States in quest of opportunity.

Millionaire, world-famous motion picture actor, he is greeted by lines of admiring people reaching from the docks to his hotel. The London which scarcely had room or food enough for him as a lad, and possibly would have left his untimely grave unkept and unmarked, hails him with applause, admiration and affection. Society is proud of having him as guest. He is the idol of the populace.

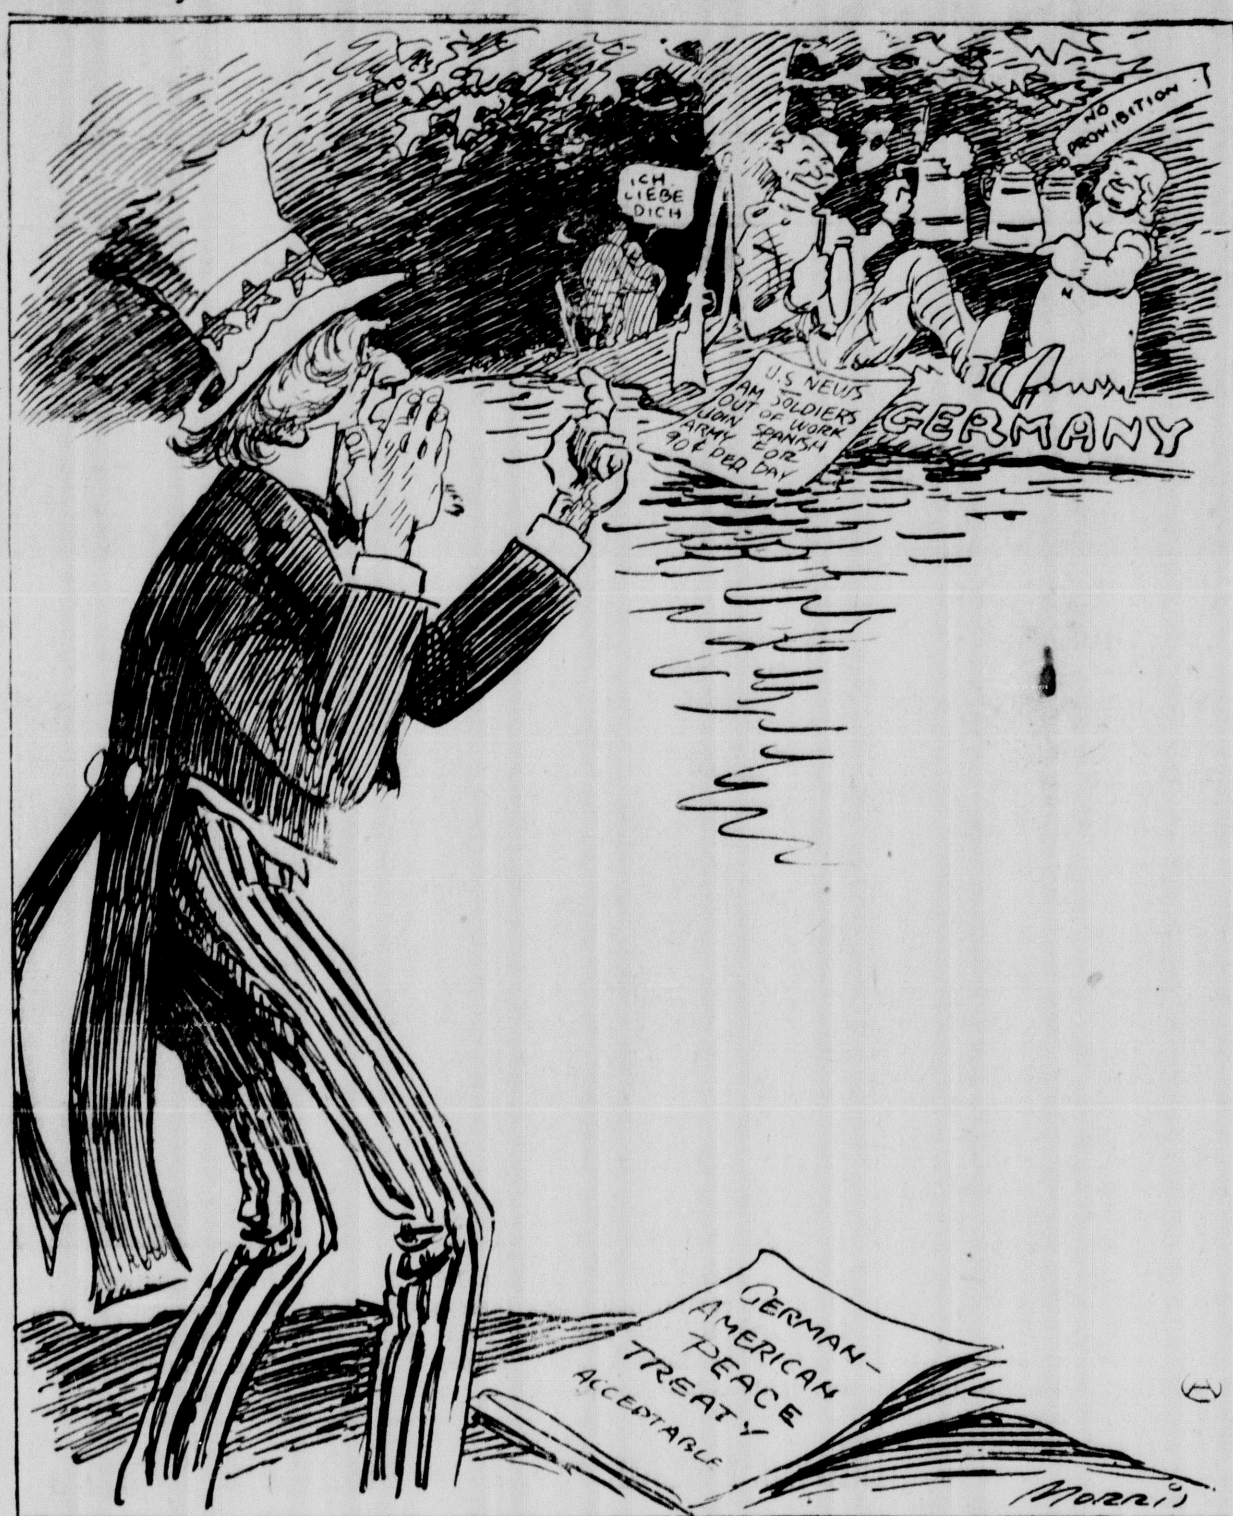

After all, what is strange about the neglect of the poor, insignificant boy and the adulation for the successful and prosperous man? The London way to Chaplin is the way of every big city; the humors of the London public are the humors of every public. There are thousands of boys in the congested centers of the cities who never have heard of God and who exist by natural intuition. Society does not realize that thousands of animals are better tended and trained than thousand of human beings, with hearts, minds and souls, and with life before them.

In the case of Chaplin, it must be conceded, to do him credit, that his great success was not due to luck. He had ambition to try to be somebody in London, and to come to America, and to work hard here. His art is not the highest art; but it is art. His dramatic instinct impels him to attempt art of a nobler kind; which proves further that it was ambition which led him on the path of renown.

The public likes those who please it and bends the knee of flattery to wealth or power. Wealth and power are the masters, never wanting courtiers. The public will idolize Chaplin as long as he makes it laugh, but it will neglect him, as it did the unknown, starving urchin in London, if he ceases to amuse it. Chaplin will not be without friends, as he once was, as long as he is rich. Nevertheless, let the deep contrast of Chaplin's life direct our thoughts and charity to the poor, weak and disconsolate. There is greater work to be done than winning martial victories, annexing territory, expanding trade, or reveling in luxury and glory.

The Stroller

HUMAN INTEREST ITEMS
GATHERED ABOUT TOWN
AND ITS PEOPLE

How is business Axel? asked a customer of Axel wain, the Edgely baker. "Well I'm still making the dough," he replied.

And he needs it, too.

A motorist the other day halted and asked William Shores, who was manuevering the surface of Beaver street, "which is the best road to Philadelphia?"

Shores replied—"The air route, I guess."

And it comes near being true when once you have ridden over the Bristol pike.

"Is it possible for a girl to wipe up the floor with her skirt?" asked a well known business man, the other day.

Not if she is wearing said skirt.

It has been observed that the outboard craze is much affected by girls having pretty hands.

The only thing that is 10 percent lower than it was in 1918, is Liberty bonds.

Some people in Bristol think there is no objection to prohibition if they can select the enforcement officers.

Thousands of people frequently visit Theodore Roosevelt's grave on a single Sunday. It is not known that there is any crowd visiting the remains of some of the people who used to call him a liar.

Conditions would settle down a lot better if a lot of people would settle up.

Why don't you stir up the Stroller? It's dead lately.

The above are two of the comments hurled at our head the other night by a bosom friend of ours.

We agree with what his queries convey and offer no apology for it. It seems as though just now even the unexpected isn't happening in Bristol. It takes just about all of our time to make a respectable showing on page 1, without any attempt to get on the inside of the sheet.

Then our friends haven't been as liberal as usual in supplying the themes on which Stroller stories are written. O, we could write a few hot ones which would set the town agog, but then on second thought, we hesitate.

For instance there was the fellow who took his best girl to Trenton the other afternoon. The return trip was made via boat and when the old side wheeler reached Burlington Island, the couple was informed that the boat did not stop at Bristol.

It cost the pair a dollar to get to this side of the river.

Shall Pennsylvania Hold A Constitutional Convention?

Information for Voters in a Series of Questions and Answers Made Public by Bristol League of Women Voters.

Q—What steps have already been taken to secure a revised constitution?

A—The 1919 Legislature authorized the Governor to appoint a commission of twenty-five members to study the present constitution and to recommend revision if advisable and the best method of securing change, whether by amendment or general revision. This commission of twenty-five members especially selected for the big task in hand organized December 9, 1919, and deliberated for four months. In its report to the 1921 General Assembly the commission recommended the enactment of laws necessary to provide for submitting to the people the question of calling a constitutional convention and for the method of selection of the members.

Q—What action did the 1921 Legislature take?

A—It passed an act referring the question of calling the convention to the voters at the primaries on September 20th of this year. The convention is to be composed of three members from each congressional district and twenty-five additional members to be appointed by the Governor.

With Adequate Airplane and Submarine Forces We Are Impregnable.

By SENATOR W. L. JONES of Washington.

The recent bombing test demonstrated that ships such as those attacked could be damaged and even destroyed. It vindicates the efforts by the senate for increased appropriations for aircraft, and also for aircraft carriers and aviation bases on the Pacific coast.

With an adequate air force and adequate submarine force, we are absolutely impregnable against outside attack. It would be impossible for any enemy to land or for a fleet to dare to approach our coasts. If that is true, it is of vital importance that we should make provision immediately for adequate aircraft carriers and aviation and submarine bases.

We must have these new defenses now—there must be no delay. Anti-aircraft guns on battleships will occasionally bring down an airplane or even more than one, but it is silly to suppose the aircraft will not have the advantage in any such contests.

Borough and School Taxes for 1921

Notice is hereby given that Borough and School taxes for the year 1921 are due and payable to my office, No. 210 Radcliffe street, Bristol, Bucks County, Pa., between the hours of 9 and 12 A. Tax Collector.

Peter took the doctor's chair, keeping his concerned and sympathetic eyes upon her.

"He was well one day," she said, simply, "and the next—the next, he didn't come downstairs, and Hong waited and waited—and about nine o'clock I went up—and he had fallen—he had fallen—"

She was in tears again and Peter put his hand out and covered hers and held it.

"He must have been going to call some one," said Alix, after a while, "they said he never suffered at all. This was January, the last day, and Cherry got here the same night. He knew us both toward morning. And that—that was all. Cherry was here for two weeks. Martin came and went—"

"Where is Cherry now?" Peter interrupted.

"Back at Red Creek," Alix wiped her eyes. "She hates it, but Martin had a good position there. Poor Cherry, it made her ill."

"Anne came?"

"Anne and Justin, of course," Peter could not understand Alix's expression. She fell silent, still holding his hand and looking at the fire.

He looked at her with a great deal of admiration and affection. She was not only a pretty and a clever woman; but, in her plain black, with a new aspect of gravity and dignity, and with new notes of pathos and appeal in her exquisite voice, he realized that she was an extremely charming woman.

Before he said good-by to her, he had asked her to marry him. He well remembered her look of bright and interested surprise.

"D'you mean to tell me you have forgotten your lady love of the hoop skirts and ringlets?" she had demanded.

"No," Peter had told her, frankly. "I shall always love her, in a way. But she is married; she never thinks of me. And I like you so much, Alix, I like our music and cooking and tramps and reading—together. Isn't that a pretty good basis for marriage?"

"No!" Alix had answered, decidedly. "Perhaps if I were madly in love with you I should say yes, and trust to little fingers to lead you gently, and so on—"

Q—How are the elected members to be chosen?

A—Candidates are to be nominated by each political party. Each elector will vote in the primary and November elections for two of the three candidates to be chosen in each district. The three candidates in each congressional district receiving the highest vote will be the district delegates to the convention. This method of selection was provided for the purpose of ensuring minority representation.

Q—What is the argument of the Revision Commission in favor of holding a constitutional convention.

A—"We believe in representative government as a fundamental American institution. It is one of the essentials of representative government that the whole people, through representatives duly selected in a manner authorized by the people shall have the right to frame their fundamental law. A constitutional convention, composed of duly selected representatives is the only practical way in which the citizens of the great Commonwealth can frame a constitution."

He remembered ending the conversation in one of his quick moods of irritation against her. If she couldn't take anybody or anything seriously—he had said.

Poor Alix—she was taking life seriously enough tonight, Peter thought, as he watched her.

"Tell me about Cherry," he said.

"Cherry is well, but just a little thin, and heartbroken now, of course. Martin never seems to stay at any one place very long, so I keep hoping—"

"Doesn't make good?" Peter said, shaking his head.

"Doesn't seem to! It's partly Cherry, I think," Alix said honestly. "She was too young, really. She never quite settles down, or takes life in earnest. But he's got a contract now for three years, and so she seems to be resigning herself, and she has a maid, I believe."

"She must love him," Peter submitted. Alix looked surprised.

"Why not?" she smiled. "I suppose when you've had ups and downs with a man, and been rich and poor, and sick and well, and have lived in half-a-dozen different places, you rather take him for granted!" she added.

"Oh, you think it works that way?" Peter asked, with a keen look.

"Well, don't you think so? Aren't lots of marriages like that?"

"You false alarm. You quitter!" he answered. Alix laughed, a trifle guiltily. Also she flushed, with a great wave of splendid young color that made her face look seventeen again. "Your father left you—something, Alix?" Peter asked presently, with some hesitation.

"That," she answered frankly, "is where Anne comes in!"

"Anne?"

"Anne and Justin came straight over," Alix went on, "and they were really lovely. Doctor Younger and George Sewall were here every day; you and George were named as executors. I was so mixed up in policies and deeds and overdue taxes and interest and bonds—"

Heiress And School Boy Wonder Elope

Friends of Mrs. Bertha Samuels Sinclear are wondering whether she will win the forgiveness of her father, or whether Colonel Joseph Samuels will keep his threat to disinherit her. The millionaire made this threat when the bride indicated her intention of being married to James Sinclear, former Brown University athlete. The couple eloped a few days ago, being married at Mystic, Conn. It was late in the night when they reached Mystic. It was raining, and the engine in their motor had stalled. The circumstances were not at all romantic, though the heiress found a touch of romance in the fact that if her father held to his word she would have to be content with Sinclear's salary in lieu of her large allowance.

Our Gigantic Business

An idea of the size of our business and our ability to serve the public may be gained from the fact that it requires a herd of more than one hundred thousand cows, milked twice daily, to supply the rich milk from the cream of which our butter is made!

Two million hens and over are needed to fill our egg requirements! The daily potato consumption of Philadelphia is about 20 cars—yet in one week recently we distributed 77 carloads of potatoes! And shortly previous to that, we sold over the counters in a single week 103 carloads.

As another example of our immense output, the weekly capacity of our three big daylight bakeries is more than two million loaves, requiring the wheat production of more than two thousand acres!

Our present position as supreme leader in the retail grocery and meat field is due to our unswerving policy of giving the public "the squarest kind of a square deal." Today, more than ever before, it pays to deal at the "Asco" Stores, where Quality counts and your money goes the farthest.

Dries Denies Implication In Freight Car Looting

disse is alleged to have been found at the woman's remnant store. The county authorities notified the police and Captain Clancy and Detectives Blauth and Mullen were sent to the place. Lieutenant Ennis and Sparring and Detective Mangan, of the Pennsylvania railroad and Detective Geyer, of the Reading, also went to the house and the entire building was searched. Mrs. Horowitz said that she had purchased the articles and that she had receipts for all the merchandise found in her place.

Some of the goods found in the Horowitz house is said to have been identified by R. L. Lanning, of Yardley, freight agent for the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company at that place. That station was robbed on the night of August 12.

The articles found at the Horowitz home are said to include all kinds of dry goods, whole bolts or rolls of velvets, muslins, dress goods and suitings, cretons, draperies, surgical cloth, pillow cloth, pillow cases, stockings, hats, shoes, rugs, etc.

Michael Dries is employed by the Prudential Insurance Company in Bristol. About ten years ago he was employed by his brother, Louis Dries, but the latter has had few business connections with him since then, Louis Dries said today. Mrs. Horowitz is a sister of the Dries brothers.

The alleged stolen property found in my sister's store," said Louis Dries today, "is not of more than $1,000 value, I am informed, and she has bills and freight receipts for all of it, she tells me."

THEATRES

Forrest Theatre

Like a breath exhilarating country ozone, "Fickle omen" the new com-ozone, "Fickle Women" the new com-Theatre today.

This photoplay which is an adapta-tion of the Saturday Evening Post story, "Sitting on the World," by So-phie Kerr, is very similar in its hu-mor and human touches to "David Harum" and "The Old Homestead." It is an up to the minute tale of a young fellow who thinks he has lost all he possesses in the world when his girl makes up with another fellow while he is away to the war.

But it is the "face with the smile that wins!" This picture shows that it is as hard to keep a good man down as it is to get a telephone number now a days. We have heard so much about grim determination, that it may sound strange to hear of smiling determina-tion, but that is the moral of this pic-ture.

Americans have long been known in all parts of the world as a nation that smiles. Calvin Price, the young hero of this story smiled his way through war, and smiled himself out of the clutches of one woman and into the heart of another. With this same smile plus a good Yankee wallop he re-stored his good name and started out in real earnest on the road of life.

There is much not only to amuse in this picture, but to inspire as well. King Solomon said that laughter doeth good like unto medicine, so take this tip and be on hand early at the Forrest Theatre to take your medicine

New Colonial Theatre

Of the motion picture costume plays which have won such marked favor with screen audiences recently, one of the best is "The Tavern Knight," the Stoll film which will be shown at the New Colonial Theatre to-night. It is a strikingly dramatic story of Cromwellian England, of the time when the Puritan inventors of the "blue Sunday" idea were abroad in the land, when romance and ad-venture were the rule of life, rather than the exception.

Wonderful English landscape scenes magnificent (and genuine) castle in-teriors, a spectacular battle, hand-to-hand encounters galore, a fast-moving plot, excellent acting—these are the elements entering into the whole effect of a production ranking with the best.

As engaging and fascinating a char-acter as has been seen on the screen in a long time is that of the title role the mysterious Tavern Knight. A dis-solute roysterer, but, withal, a cour-ageous and lovable figure, who rises at times to impressive heights—that is the man's portrayed by Eille Nor-wood, the noted British actor. Nor-wood brings to the screen of this country a versatility, reserve and sheer power more than welcome.
